

STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP OVERVIEW

ReInhabiting
the Village
CoCreating our Future

*“A dream you dream alone is only a dream.
A dream you dream together is reality.” ~John Lennon*

ReInhabiting the Village is a movement.

We live at a crossroads. A time in which the choices we make as individuals and organizations influence and create the legacy we leave for our children.

How do we create a Global Community that is healthy, safe, balanced, interconnected?

How does this Global Community become more equitable, more just, more sustaining for all peoples, not just a few?

We are curating successful stories of organizational solutions from holistic living communities to showcase simple, new ways to live in balance with this planet.

By aligning with the wisdom of our ancestors and of nature while leveraging the effective use of modern technology and innovation - a new world - full of solutions is emerging.

Project Description

A multimedia project that shares years of collective knowledge and ideas for organizations and communities.

“ReInhabiting the Village: CoCreating our Future” is a multi-media project consisting of printed & digital materials and an online community created by an allied network of partners and contributors. The information being curated will showcase a diverse collection of knowledge on a variety of topics to foster thriving projects, organizations, and communities.

After years of building an allied network through festivals, leadership summits, collaborative projects, and community development this project offers an inspiring roadmap for the future. Rooted in holistic living principles, there exists a rich body of materials, models, and templates that are ready to be shared to support communities ready to flourish from the experience and insight of our contributing authors.

Launching in Spring of 2015, the elements of ReInhabiting the Village includes:

- A printed hardbound book
- A digital eBook
- A companion workbook
- An interactive website with a resource directory and a suite of collaborative tools.

Bridging the wisdom of the past and the innovation of the future, we take action today to build resilient and interconnected communities working together towards a bright tomorrow.”

Chapters & Contributors

*Forty diverse contributors;
seven focused community topics.*

We are curating a diverse cross section of up to 40 community builders who are all actively contributing their unique perspective and solutions to the evolution of organizations and communities.

We have invited grassroots leaders, artists, educators, visionaries, facilitators, event producers, permaculture experts, economic advisors, technology developers, indigenous elders and thought leaders, project managers, ecologists, leadership trainers, media specialists, and social movement organizers to share their voices on the following topics.

- 1. The Heart of Community*
- 2. Building Regional Resilience*
- 3. Inhabiting the Urban Village*
- 4. Community Land Stewardship/Eco Villages*
- 5. Holistic Event Production*
- 6. Social Media and Online Communities*
- 7. Whole Systems Project Management and Governance Models*

Meet the Team

Jamaica Stevens

Creator & Author

Jamaica is devoted to revealing the genius of each human and sharing collective intelligence to co-create solutions that benefit all. As the Creator of Tribal Convergence Gatherings, Executive Producer of Awaken Visionary Leadership Summit, Co-Founder of Tribal Convergence Network, and organizational consultant and producer with Lucidity, Harmony, Envision and other festivals, she is an experienced event producer, workshop leader, group facilitator, community organizer, organizational systems consultant, project manager, and life coach.

Harnessing wisdom from this eclectic background of experience, Jamaica uses empowering tools and innovative approaches to holistic systems for living and co-creating pathways for individuals, communities, and organizations to THRIVE.

The Vision for the “ReInhabiting the Village” Project comes from being inspired to curate the wisdom, reflections, and practices of her community of amazing activists, educators, producers, artists, and visionaries who each reflect the Voice and Heart of a greater movement.

Julian Reyes

Executive Producer

Julian Reyes’s experience reflects a lifelong dialogue with computer graphics, film, music, and technology. Julian formed Keyframe-Entertainment in 2004 as a music label and artist management company. Currently, Keyframe is a media network that creates global positive change by inspiring, informing, and entertaining through Transformational films, Visionary Art, electronic music and festival culture. Keyframe produces, finances, and distributes cutting edge projects in order to generate growth for its partners and strengthen community-building worldwide.

Keyframe is the Executive Producer of Andrew Johner’s “Electronic Awakening” and Jeet-Kei’s “The Bloom Series Episode 3: New Ways Of The Sacred.” Julian is honored to be joining “ReInhabiting the Village” as Producer and Contributor, he hopes that this work offers audiences a view of the potential of visionary culture.

Julian serves on the Board of Directors of the Electronic Music Alliance (EMA), a collaboration that cultivates social responsibility, environmental stewardship, community building and volunteerism.

Keala Young

Content Editor & Contributing Author

A. Keala Young is a whole system designer, regenerative practitioner and permaculture teacher with a background in the healing arts. His work on ReInhabiting the Village as editor and contributing author is an opportunity to further his life’s mission to support the integration of living systems coherence for individuals and communities in the Global Village.

Since 2005 Keala has been consciously committed to the path of co-creating living & learning communities and has studied far and wide, gathering the seeds and skills to undertake the adventure of realizing models for the future now. He has over a decade of experience presenting and curating educational content for festivals and is a cofounder of the budding Atlan Ecovillage in the Columbia Gorge. A steward of Gaiacraft, Keala also serves on the board of CultureSeed an educational nonprofit with the mission to inspire and support thriving global communities through experiential learning programs and transformational events..

Natacha Pavlov

Copy Editor

Natacha is the Copywriter / Communications Assistant at Keyframe-Entertainment. She is also a writer whose literary style blends elements of creative nonfiction and historical fiction with doses of spirituality, magical realism and myth / folk tale elements..

She is honored to be using her literary background to support the “ReInhabiting the Village” book project as proofreader and editor. As a being committed to lifelong growth and learning, she looks forward to learning about the multiple facets of the social movement directly from instrumental members and proponents of this vital community.

Davin Skonberg

Graphic Curator & Contributing Author

Davin Infinity is a Creative Director with 18 years of graphic design and book publishing experience. His life's work and creative play is at the intersection of art, social psychology and culture design. He has traveled the world visiting and studying sacred sites and cultures as well as visiting over 50 eco-village and new paradigm societies like Damanhur & Auroville.

Davin has also spent the last 15 years training in several lineages of shamanism, martial arts and Mystery Schools. Davin is an experienced and powerful metaphysical guide into the Quest of human potential and transformation. This work is a major influence in his films, workshops and visionary art.

Kelli Rua Klein

Graphic Designer & Contributing Author

Kelli's extensive experience spans over 20 years in the graphic design, brand marketing and operations fields. After earning a BS in Graphic Design, she discovered she also possessed a love for process and organization. Her professional path has led her through a diverse 18 year tenure at Nike Inc, where she held global and regional operations and management roles.

In 2013, she resigned from Nike to start Bridgewalkers LLC; a consulting business with a mission to support individuals and organizations with their organization and storytelling. She leverages visualization tools and techniques to deliver creative messages that bridge art, audience, culture and whole systems design.

As a world traveller and lifetime student of nature, art and culture; Kelli became interested and active in a variety of transformational festivals and intentional communities. She is dedicated to building and participating in communities that steward the land they reside on and helping build educational and storytelling methods and models for our future.

Jonah Haas

Social Media, Sponsorship & Contributing Author

Jonah Gabriel Haas is a messenger, a cultural anthropologist, a lucid dreamer, and a successful entrepreneur. After completing a double BS in Marketing and Anthropology from the University of Maryland, College Park, he went on to earn an MA in Cultural Anthropology from the University of California, Santa Barbara. During this time he focused his studies on the anthropology of tourism, community-driven resource management, and the social theory of global capitalism. Currently, Jonah is the Marketing Director and Co-Founder of Lucidity Festivals LLC, which is now in its 4th year of transformational festival production in Santa Barbara, CA.

As an ambassador of personal, communal, and global transformation for the benefit of our One Human Family and Mother Earth, Jonah is committed to facilitating the emergence of activated land nodes. He envisions these thriving hotspots of human potential as interconnected conscious communities acting as educational institutes and sustainable models for New Earth village living.

Antje Martin Schaeffer

Curation, Contributing Author & Project Manager

Antje manages communication with contributors and the submission process for Re-Inhabiting the Village. She is honored and excited to collaborate with and support a network of change-makers and is dedicated to connecting people with valuable tools and resources in their interwoven paths to create a better world.

West Coast festival culture and the rich creative community of San Francisco provided Antje with the perfect playground to discover her passion and gift for bridging and cross-pollinating ideas between communities. She is the creator of Connexus Dance, a platform for transformational urban gatherings furthering the movement for authentic connection through conscious partner dance. She is based in Portland and teaches Cocréa - a holistic partnered dance and movement modality she co-creates with her partner, Wren LaFeet. Together they teach workshops and retreats throughout the U.S. as well as internationally.

Target Audience

Social, intergenerational, transnational, educated and active...

This project will find resonance among a socially-engaged, intergenerational, physically active audience of 20-65 year old males, females, and families who value community interaction, holistic health & wellness, earth stewardship, transformational practice, and artistic living.

Our educated, transnational audience is a growing segment of the global LOHAS market that, in addition to health and sustainability, embraces cultural literacy, meaningful travel, social justice and empowerment, and believes in the power of participation.

Allied Network

Our collective network reaches more than two million people!
